About Me

I'm the founder of Four Construction Consultancy Services Limited, established in 2020 with a vision to deliver transparent, personable, and honest construction consultancy services. Since its inception, Four Consult has grown into a multi-disciplinary property and construction consultancy, trusted for its tailored approach and client-first mindset.

In an industry often dominated by one-size-fits-all solutions, I believe in doing things differently. I offer a truly personal and bespoke service—guiding clients through every stage of the project journey, from pre-construction to post-completion. My goal is to make the process seamless, collaborative, and enjoyable.

With over 15 years of experience in project and commercial management, I've led a wide range of construction ventures, from land acquisition and development to main contracting and subcontracting. I've worked with regional contractors and national house builders, successfully delivering projects valued up to £50 million. This breadth of experience allows me to craft strategies that are not only commercially sound but also tailored to each client's unique objectives.

I bring strategic insight, hands-on expertise, and a collaborative approach to every project I undertake. Whether you're planning a development, navigating procurement challenges, or looking for commercial advice, I'm here to help.
